Wirreams' Ascnon.-The ingentity of inremains has long been taxed in the endeavor o produce an unchor which should come near-er than do any of the old strie, to the ideal of a perfect ground tackle. The descrata in an unchor may be briefly stated as follows: First, efficiency in taking the ground, and framess in bubling; second, facility in tripping or heav-ing the anchor out of the ground; third, such simplicity of structure as will render fouling. simplicity of structure as will render fouling, by its own, or other ships' cables, impossible: fourth, compactness of form, and case of stowage. It is safe to say that no anchor has been invented (untill very recentity which combind all these advantages. The first successful attempt to improve upon the old sumbrous anchor, with its massive shank, its wide spreading fixed flakes, and its huge wooden stock, was made when iron movable stock were introduced. These housest wate used mostly for duced. These, however, were used mostly for small kedges and boat anchors. The next im-provement of any importance for although in-numerable devices have been patented from test of practical experiment), was the patent known as Troiman v. in which the fluke move on a pivot in theorem. The anchor has been vary generally adopted in the British navy, time to time, but few of them have stood the and also in the merchant services of various nations. Lloyd and Stewart's anchor was a new application of the moveable finkes, these and also in the merchant services of various nations. Lloyd and Stewart's anchor was a new application of the moveable flokes, these parts awinging in an opposite direction to that taken in Trotunar's anchor. Both these anchors are good and serviceable sones, but it has been reserved for a San Franciscan to invent what appears to us to be the ideal anchor. The mractime invented by Mr. Frederice Wittram, of this city, is so entirely unlike anything in the schape of ground tarkle ever seen before, that before altempting to describe it we must ask our readers to divest themselves of any remembrance of other anchors, since an aitempt at comparison would only eventuate in mental confusion. Take a square stick of wood, say a foot long, and with a chiesel or gonge cut a longitudinal slit in one of its finese, commencing at the end, teaching nearly half way down. a foot long, and with a chiest or gonge cut a longitudinal slit in one of its faces, common-eing at the end, teaching nearly half way down, and going clear through the stick. Then turn the stick over, and out another slit at the lower part at right angles to the first, and reaching nearly to the end of the stick. If now you hold the stick up one way, you see only the upper opening; turn it and you see only the lower une. Now take a straight fluke, point it, round the upper end, and, inserting it at the top of the upper opening, fasten it with a pin or holdt. But another similar fluke in the wer opening, fix a ring at each end of the lower opening, fix a ring at each end of the stick, and you have arough model of Wittram's anchor. When not in use the flukes fold up, and are contained in the body of the shank, like the blades of a pocked knife. Throw the anchor overboard, and the flukes swing out. No matter how the anchor falls, they are bound to take hold, and should it be canted so

The poor German in the story was delighted when the Prime Minister signed himself "your obedient servant," for he believed that henceforth all his wishes would be granted; and to persons unaccus-tomed to French currespondence the pMrase "accept the assurance of my highest consider ation" seems to imply much more than the writer intended. The Chinese conclude their writer incomed. A minister, being can agratulated on his promotion, replies in the self-depreciatory after dinner style of the Freeself-depreciatory after-dinner style of the Free-masons' Tavern. "The writer received yes-terday his Excellency's complimentary note of congratulations. As holding it with purif-ed hands he perused it, he was at once con-founded by its over praise, and embarrassed by his sense of his own unworthiness." Where Your petitioners will ever pray," the Chinese are, as they should be, more flowery —"Steeped in your favor, they in haste repair to the presence of your Excellency, whom they pray to stand their friend."

THE NEW BRUSSWICK TIDAL WAVE.-It would seem by the following from the Dum-fries-shire and Galloway Hernild and Register eptember 11th, that the New Brunswick I wave was furefold to the day-almost to the hour-by and English naval officer: Lieutenani S. M. Sanby, of the Royal Navy, eays that "at seven a. w. on October 5th, the moon will be at the part of the orbit which is the nearest to the earth. Her attraction will, therefore, be at its maximum force. At poon on the same day the moon will be in the earth's equator—a circumstance which herer occurs without marked atmospheric disturbance; and at two r. M. on the same day lines drawn from the earth's centre would out the sun and moon in the are of right assension (the meon's at-traction and the sun's attraction will therefore he actually in the same direction.) In other words, the new moon will be on the earth's uator when in perigee—and nothing more reatening can. I say, occur without a miracle; the earth, it is true, will not be in perihelion by some 16 or 17 seconds chronometer.)" The consequence of this will be one of the highest

Up-well St. Peter, near Wisbeach, now stands as the richest benefice of the English Church, le-ing returnd in the "Clergy List" as worth £3.055 a year but well known to be worth 25.057 a year but well known to be worth considerably more. In the same parish there is the mortory of Christ Church, returned as being worth £1.594 a year, also helonging to the Townley family. The vacancy in St. Peter's Upwell has been caused by the death of the Rev. William Gale Townley, who held it only swen years.

CHINESE TESTINGSY. Judge Sawyer, of the Fourth District court, in the case of Alfred Welch against one of the Chinese companies, decided that the testimony of Chinese witness decided that the testimony of Chinese witnesses must be received. The action was brought by Weich against an Hand et al., to recover $62,500 damages for alleged breach of contract by which defendants were to furnish laborars to cut fifty thousand cords of wood in Santa Cran county and deliver it at Redwood city. The defence had more but Chinese witnesses, and plaintiff objected to their testimony being received. After argument by counsel Judge Sawyer held that the testimony was proper and must be admitted; that moter the Fourteenth Amendment all persons were entitled to testify in the Courts; that if such was not the case Chinamen could not receive fall and entire justice in the Courts.

article on the situation in Spain, forsees that the understanding between Prim and Serrano must end in the election of a king, which affords the best opportunity they could have for the dissolution of the partnership, which could not otherwise be effected without a disastrous outbreak. The Unionists have no chance for success. After weeks of vain debate in the Cortes, the Ministers of that party have resigned. Serrano must follow them: then Prim remains master. Serrano decore in the Cortes, the Ministers of that party have resigned. Serrano must follow them: then Prim remains master. Serrano has served as a check for his ambition. If Serrano withdrawa and the Duke of Genoa is not brought in, then Prim shands forth exposed to the eavy of the great, and the rancers of the small, alone between friends who don't trust him, and coemies who, when the time comes, won't spare him.

HAYS PRIEM .- Our worthy forefathers have left us a tale in version of which the purpose is to show how difficult, and yet how necessary it is, sometimes, to keep silance. The sub-stance of the story is as follows: Hans Priem was admitted into Paradise or the express condition that he was not to in-duige a habit he had acquired of censuring and criticising whatever came under his notice. Accordingly, he saw two angels carrying a Accordingly, he saw two angels carrying a beam crossways, and knocking it against every object, they met, but said nothing. He next saw two other angels drawing water from a fountain, and pouring into a cask which had holes in the bottom, and was much surprised, but held his peace. At many other things of the same kind he also suppressed his laughter and remarks, apprehending that he might otherwise be expelled from the place. At last, however, he saw a cart stack fast in the mire, with one pair of horses yoked into it before, and another pair behind, and the carter urgand another pair behind, and the carter urging both simultaneously forward. This belog a matter which belonged to his own profession, it was more than Hans could do to refrain from criticising it, and the consequence was that he was saired by two angels and turned to the door; before it closed behind him, however, he looked back, and perceived that the horses were winged, and had succeeded in drawing the cart out of the mud, into the air; nor can there be any doubt that in the other case of there be any doubt that in the other the beam and cask there were equally good reneons for what was done. Wherefore, let us learn to hold our peace, and refrain from ceneuring the ways of God. But where am I running? In praising silence I have become loquacious? My God? do Thou Thyself instruct me when to speak, and when to held my tongue !- Gotthold a Emblema.

Erow Evigenrin.—Before I had been many days at school I had made two very extraordinary discoveries. One was that the Eton boys had no mamma. On the day after my arrival I found Jones and Verethrow-Eton boys had no mamma. On the day after my arrival I found Jones and Verethrowing my night caps out of the window, and called out to them not to do so, as my mamma told me to wear them. I shall never forget the burst of languter with which this statement was received. The only thing more ridiculous than wearing nightens was having a "mamma." Thompson, who was good-natured, spoke to me afterward about it, gravely and as a friend. An Eton boy, he said had no "mamma," but a "mother," "mater," or "masernity," I might take my choice; and the corresponding terms were used instead of papa. But the second discovery was more startling—there were no boys at all at Eton. As soon as the smallest atom had his name registered on the bead master's books he was constituted then and there a "fellah." This designation, it must be understood, has no reference to Egyptian bondage, but is the superintive form of fellow, synonymous with "good fellow," and signifies that its happy possessor has all, the best qualities implied by the latter term and many more besides. The process adopted by Dr. Radway in securing extracts (prepared in vacue,) of Medicinal Roots, Plants, Herbs, and other vegetables possessing great curative proper-ties over Scrofula. Chronic, Syphilitic and all akin diseases, that enters into the com-position of the Renovating Resolvent, pro-duces only ONE OUNCE of the pure extract out of 20 lbs. of the crude roots. The Inert out of 20 lbs, of the crude roots. The Inert matter that enters so generally in the large bottle mixtures and prepared under the offi-bottle mixtures and prepared under the offi-cinal or pharmacopeia formula, is, by Dr. Radway's process, cast aside as rubbish. One teaspoonful of the Resolvent is suffi-cient for a dose for all Skin Diseases, Salt Rheum Phuples, Blotches, Sores and Trup-tions of the Skin, Humors in the Blood, &c. One teaspoonful, three times per day, will, in a few days, make the Blood pure, the Skin clear, the Eves bright, the Complexion smooth and transparent, the Hair strong, and remove all Sores, Pimples, Biotches, Pustules, Tetall Sores, Pimples, Biotches, Pustules, Tet-ters, Cankers, &c., from the Head, Face, Neck, Month and Skin. It is pleasant to take, and the do e is small.
